Professional Development On Demand

We at CMI are committed to make training available in as many formats as possible, to reach the greatest numbers of those who work with youth possible. To this end, we offer video conferencing and online on demand professional development.

In addition to courses that are selected by us, we invite districts to request specific content to meet their unique needs and desires. For instance, following a full team training, CMI recommends that all staff who work with youth in the entire district have the opportunity to be included an on-line on suicide prevention training course. There are some simple things that people can do that will save lives. And that is just one example.

Most courses are 1-hour segments, and can be customized to meet your state or district needs. It's easy to order your online course with your credit card. Visit us at www.cmionline.org.
